Minister Wu is here with several attaches of the Chinese legation to meet Prince Chen, a special envoy to the coronation of King Edward, who will arrive on the St. Paul tomorrow. He said: "I am too modest to do so now, but when I go back to China I am going to write a book and say all the things I want to about the United States. I shall write how you take a nicely paved street and dig it up, then recover it and then dig it up again."

Life in Washington "Oh, my book will deal with everything; my life in Washington; what I think of public men; my various trips about the country and everything. It will be a good sized book. I have not started to write it yet, but I shall, never fear, and the people of the United States will like to read it. I shall say many very, very nice things about them."

"Of course I am glad to see New York again," he said, "but when will you ever stop digging mines in your streets. I never saw such big holes as you make in your beautiful city. When I drove to the hotel I heard roars which sounded like all the artillery in the United States was firing shots at the same time. I was told it was blasting."

EDWARD ALBERT IS NOW THE KING OF ALL ENGLISH

Stands the Ceremony Very Well, and Is Cheered by the Thousands of Loyal Subjects Who Are Assembled.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) London, August 9.—King Edward the Seventh, after seven weeks of fighting with death, was triumphantly crowned ruler of the World's mightiest empire at Westminster Abbey at 12:20 this noon and as the crown was placed upon his head the signal was flashed from the Abbey to Hyde Park and the Tower.

Cannons Thunder At these places artillery was placed and salute after salute was fired and joined with the ringing of the bells

KING EDWARD VII made the whole city reverberate with acclamations of joy.

Surrounded by Peers Surrounded on all sides by peers of the realm with scarlet robes with white satin breeches, Edward solemnly swore to govern the people according to the laws of parliament whereupon the Abbey rang with shouts. The whole ceremony was most republican in nature although very impressive.

Leaves the Palace The King left Buckingham palace promptly at eleven and arrived at the Abbey at eleven twenty-six. Enroute two of the royal carriages collided, with each other and Lord Edward Pelham Clinton was slightly injured.

Beautiful Day The morning opened with brilliant sunshine, but later the sky became overcast. No rain fell however, but a chilly breeze blew up that made it comfortable for the crowds that had assembled. As the state carriages appeared from the Buckingham palace gates the throng sent up a mighty shout of welcome.

Looks Well His Majesty appears to be in excellent health and the Queen is brown and smiling right and left and appeared to be much gratified. Beside the carriage rode the Duke of Connaught and his son, Prince Arthur.

Features Seen

Crowds Gather Early and Are Enthusiastic

London, Aug. 9.—The coronation was an incident today. The appearance of the King in public after his nearly fatal illness was the event which brought the crowds and animated the enthusiasm. Six weeks ago the various features of the medieval pageant would have attracted the whole attention, but today all thought and pity were directed to the sick king, barely convalescent, pluckily undertaking a fatiguing duty.

Despite the disappointments he had given them, Edward was undoubtedly dearer to his people for his illness, and nothing could have exceeded the loyalty of their greeting. The queen, too, was hailed not so much as the second figure in the ceremony, but as the wife and nurse who had kept faithful vigil so many weeks.

Crowd Anxious Nor was the enthusiasm fully free from restraint. The crowd felt anxious for the king and fearful for the effects of the day's fatigue and every cheer had a sob not far behind it. The whole affair was infinitely more personal and more sympathetic for the postponement.

The spectacle itself was shorn of many of its glories and the crowd was not as large as it undoubtedly would have been in June, and was composed more exclusively of Londoners. Tourists who had journeyed to the first ceremony from all parts of the world had not the heart to come again. The police were in full force, but took only ordinary precautions to handle the crowd, instead of the extraordinary ones prepared in June.

No Provisions Nor were provisions for sightseers so much in evidence. The government stands up Constitution hill remain and were filled largely with officers in uniform and ladies in bright toilets. In Piccadilly there were a few stands, but many of the club houses were decorated, however, and members filled the windows.

The municipality, which had been $200,000 on previous decorations, this time spent nothing and left all to private enterprise. Residents of St. James-at subscribed $2,500 and erected rows of white poles 35 feet high festooned with ivy. Each pole was ornamented at the top by a crown.

The crowd began to gather about 4 o'clock, this morning, many men having slept in the parks, to be on hand early. By 8 o'clock, carriages were rolling in black streams toward the abbey. By 9 o'clock, the last guest had entered the abbey, the stands in the street were filled and all waited patiently for the coming of the king.

Wait For Hours The expectant crowd had been waiting for hours before there was any special sign of life within the yard of Buckingham palace. Not until 9:30 were the coaches with their outriders and escort seen moving into the carriage road which led from the royal stables. One by one they passed under the portico of the palace and received their occupants.

This took a long time, as nearly all were either members of the English house or visiting royalties and had to be handled with a deal of ceremony. A carriage would drive up slowly, the great doors, the footmen would jump down from behind, the carriage door would be opened and the steps let down and then amid profound bows from the gorgeous crowd of lackeys the occupants would take their places, the steps would be put up, the door closed, the footmen clamber up to their places again and the carriage drive ahead to make room for the one behind.

Royal Carriage A dozen carriages were thus filled and the procession drawn up in order of march when last of all the royal golden coach with a lion and unicorn on top holding a crown drove up to receive the king and queen.

Hitherto everything had been done in comparative silence, but as the royal couple emerged from the palace doors the trumpeters who were lined on either side, gave a ringing blast and the crowds knew that the leading figures of the pageant were in their places.

It was now 10:30 and the procession moved slowly out of the palace gates into the Mall. First came a group of mounted officers of the headquarters staff in red and gold uniforms, stars and medals sparkling on their breasts. Following them were a detachment of the household cavalry, the most gorgeous troops of the empire, with their German silver helmets, long horsehair plumes, red tunics, cuirasses of polished steel, white leather breeches and high top boots. Over their saddles were sheepskins and the horses as well trained as the men kept perfect step and line.

The Escort Then came eight coaches with outriders and escorts, the coaches containing the king's brothers and other members of his family and also a few foreign royalties who were relatives. Following them with another troop of household cavalry was a coach, only less splendid than the king's own, in which were the prince and princess of Wales. The coach was drawn by six jet black horses with flowing tails. The crowd, which up to this time had been murmuring applause, broke into cheers as this coach came in sight. The prince and princess acknowledged the cheers by bowing cordially to right and left.

Next came coaches containing members of the king's household, ladies and gentlemen with noble titles who were supposed to look after the royal robes, the king's stables, etc., duties which, done for anybody else, would be considered menial, but here a great honor.

Nobility Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener, surrounded by a brilliant staff, came next, and then a detachment of yeomen of the guard in ancient uniforms and carrying halberds, or long-poled axes. The crowd were all eyes for Kitchener, whom they cheered frantically. Then, in a blaze of green and yellow turban, came a detachment of Indian cavalry, their uniforms resembling mixed paints on an artist's palette.

The crowd was hardly through shouting with admiration, when more waving plumes of the household cavalry betokened the king's approach. Drawn by eight cream-colored horses, with their outriders and escort, the calvacade presented a splendid appearance. The King and Queen, not wearing their crowns, were easily visible through the coach windows.

THE LADY OR THE MOUSTACHE

Interesting Problem in New York Society Circles Over Colonial Ball.

New York, August 9.—(Special.)—The rather distressing news comes from Newport that the success or failure of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish's colonial ball of Aug. 22 hangs on the mustaches of the men. Mrs. Fish is much surprised that some of the men whom she depended upon for her fancy costume quadrille have not entered into the matter with characteristic enthusiasm, and though the reason for their lack of interest has possibly not wholly dawned upon her some of the men have confided in each other that sooner than part with the adornment of their upper lips they would forego the pleasure of a night at Crossways even on the occasion of the colonial ball. But all men do not have mustaches and those who do not are arrayed on the side of Mrs. Fish in an endeavor to persuade those who do not that the moustache is out of date anyway and might just as well be sacrificed first as last.

Must Shave Just how the matter is coming out no one dares conjecture. It is a fact, however, that a surprisingly few men have as yet decided to wear a costume at Mrs. Fish's ball. It's so much trouble," they say, "and then there's my moustache." It is probable that Mrs. Fish will soon call a roll of her men friends, who will then come face to face with the momentous question of "the lady or the moustache."

WAS KILLED BY THE ENGINE

CORONER'S JURY VERDICT ON
MRS. BOEHM'S DEATH.

RECOMMEND GATES BE USED

Testimony Showed the Engineer Did
All in His Power To Avert the Accident.

The coroner's jury impaneled to inquire into the cause of the death of Mrs. Carl Boehm, met yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at Justice Earle's office. After hearing the testimony of Engineer McLean, Fireman James Murphy and Dr. W. H. Palmer, the jury found: That Mrs. Carl Boehm came to her death on the sixth day of August by being struck by a passenger engine on the Chicago & North-western railroad at the Second street crossing.

Railway Censured
The jury also censured the railway company for not having safeguards of any kind at the crossing, and recommended to the council the passage of an ordinance to compel the railroad company to maintain some kind of a suitable safeguard at the crossing.

Testimony Given
Engineer McLean testified that Mrs. Boehm was coming from the west when the engine struck her and was in the only place where the train could not be seen for any distance coming through the Milwaukee cut. When he first saw her he was within a foot of her. The engine hit the horse before he could make a move. He put on the emergency brake and shut off and the train went about five car lengths before it stopped. The whistle was blown at the whistling post south of the cut and also in the cut. The bell was ringing automatically and had been ringing for two miles. The train was going about eighteen miles an hour when the accident occurred.

Fireman's Story
James Murphy, the fireman on McLean's engine the day of the accident, stated that all the proper signals to warn people of the approach of the train were made, the whistle was blown twice and the bell was ringing. He saw Mrs. Boehm drive onto the track when the engine was about sixty feet away and turned to tell McLean, but the engine struck the outfit almost before he could turn around. He thought that they were running about twenty miles an hour.

As To Injuries
Dr. W. H. Palmer gave the result of his examination. He found four scalp wounds from one inch to three inches long. The radius bone in the left arm was fractured and there was numerous bruises and a puncture on the left hip. The immediate cause of her death was the severe shock and an internal hemorrhage.

The only evidence introduced was on the part of the railroad company. The statements of their employees were undisputed. The verdict rendered by the jury was in accordance with the facts.

Mrs. Gilbert Halverson died Wednesday evening of apoplexy brought on by excitement over a drove of ponies which got into her doorway. The ponies were being driven to a nearby barn and entered the Halverson yard and got into Mrs. Halverson's flower beds. The lady rushed out to save the plants and fell into her husband's arms unconscious.

In the past three days two Beloit citizens have narrowly escaped death on the Northwestern bridge over Rock river, which is no thoroughfare, yet people use it constantly. One of the men was knocked into the river and the other just escaped that part of it by clinging to the guard rail with his hands, while his body was suspended in the air.

Edward Everett, a stranger attempted to commit suicide on the Central bridge Thursday. A police officer saw him acting suspiciously, accosted him. The man said he was tired of living and if the policeman would turn him loose, a moment he would end his troubles in the waters of the Rock. The policeman thought he was bluffing and told him to go ahead. The officer just managed to catch the man by the coat tails as he was going over. The would-be suicide was given a nice room all to himself in the city jail and Friday he was fined and sent to jail for five days.

GENTRY HAS A WONDERFUL MONK
WAS FORMERLY OF THE "400"

Ostracized from His Palatial Home by His Outlandish Actions.

The Gentry Bros., whose famous trained animal shows are in the city today and tonight, have in their possession a monkey of national notoriety. The monkey in question has not long been the property of the owners of the frolics of a pet monkey, being recently been owned by a member of New York's "400" summering at Newport.

Mr. Gentry tells an interesting story with reference to how he came to purchase "Little Willie," as he calls the little chatterbox. Last July while Mr. Gentry was spending a few days in New York City in the interest of the world-famous shows, which bear his name, he read a newspaper story of the frolics of a pet monkey, being responsible for a strike among the servants in a Newport mansion. Mr. Gentry took the next train for Newport where he interviewed the leader of the strike, a man named Robert Mitchell.

Too Much Monkey
"No respectable butler would stand being chased around the table by a pet monkey while he was serving dinner. That's why I struck," said the leader in telling why he and four others quit the Newport palace. "There were six of the pesky little things in the house, and they were treated a whole lot better than the servants. Why, you were liable to get one up your leg, or he'd pounce on your shirt front and scratch you. No sir, I wouldn't stand it."

Just The One
Mr. Gentry was looking for just such "monks" as this one, who had made the life of the butler almost unbearable. Through a mutual friend he secured an introduction to the occupant of the Newport mansion and in due time made such a favorable impression upon the millionaire that he presented the one who brought on the strike to the showman.

WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN.

General Remarks: The past week has been very favorable for securing the remainder of the hay crop and for the stacking and housing of rye, barley and wheat. Although the weather was at times what could be wished for, no condition of the fields, which were heavy and wet, greatly retarded the work. All growing crops are now in a decidedly fine condition. Much of the hay crop, also barley, wheat and rye, shows considerable damage, but on the whole the yield will be quite satisfactory.

Temperature: The temperature ranged considerably higher than for the preceding week, with high daily temperature during the entire period. The nights, however, continued cool, and this was taken advantage of by the farmers by working far after sundown.

Precipitation: Light local rains have occurred generally, but some counties, however, have had none the whole of the past week. An exceptionally heavy rain, with hail, passed over the central portion of the state the middle of the week, but no great damage resulted, except in a few localities.

Corn: The past week has been entirely in favor of the corn crop, with very few exceptions, the reports showing that the crop is making unusual growth, the improvement being on both high and low lands, and where the weeds have not been allowed to choke the advancement it has mostly tasseled and ears are forming. Some localities need rain.

Oats and Barley: Oats are fully ripened and a considerable quantity has been cut. These crops are much tangled and lodged and complaint is made of smut, but the yield will be good. Barley harvest is completed, although much retarded by the badly lodged condition of the grain. Much has sprouted in the shock and sheaf and material damage has resulted in some localities.

Winter Wheat and Rye: The harvest is completed and the crop is housed and stacked; considerable was sprouted in the bundle and some damage has resulted. Threshing is progressing to some extent and the yields are generally good.

Spring Wheat: is ripening rapidly and is of a good stand, the head is well filled and the yield promises well. Buckwheat is in good condition and mainly in blossom.

Hay: The harvest is completed; much of the crop is damaged, although in some counties the crop has been exceedingly heavy and has been well secured. The second crop of clover is unusually heavy and in excellent condition.

Potatoes: The outlook for potatoes has greatly improved. Bugs are unusually destructive, some fields are completely stripped.

Tobacco: continues a thrifty growth and stands well, much has been topped.

Fruit: Apples show no improvement, the blight has made great inroads on all varieties, however, in some localities the yield will be fully up to the average.

Cranberries: "Cranmoor, Wood County: Late advices from principal growing districts indicate that barring reduction by hail, blight, early fall frosts, etc., current crop will be about twenty-five per cent. larger than last year, and that, in some localities, picking season will not begin later than usual.—W. H. Fitch."

Southern Section. Grain nearly all in the shock and is a heavy crop; corn doing well; potatoes never better; excellent weather for harvesting.—A. G. Franklin.

Sylvan, Richland county: Wheat and rye all cut and some in stack; oats being cut rapidly, but crop badly tangled and down; grain very good, but some smut.—J. W. Grimm.

Burnett Junction, Dodge county: Barley all cut and some stacked; oats ready for the binder; pastures good; corn and potatoes growing rapidly.—Geo. W. Smith.

Lancaster, Grant county: Rye and barley threshed and turns out well; oats about all cut, but much of the crop left on the ground, which the binder could not get.—H. Hoffman.

W. SCHAEFFEL, in Charge.

ANNUAL OUTING OF HORSESHOERS

LOCAL BLACKSMITHS GO TO MADISON NEXT SATURDAY.

A FINE PROGRAM OF SPORTS

Janesville Smithies Will Be Joined by Fellow Craftsmen from Edgerton and Madison.

On the seventeenth of August throughout the United States, wherever there is an order of the Master Horsehoers' National Protective association, each blacksmith takes off his leather apron, lets the forge die down, and betakes himself to the tall grass, the woods, or some sandy lake beach. This year since the seventeenth and Sunday are coincident the sixteenth will be substituted.

Esther Beach, Madison, has been chosen for the scene of this year's, the third annual picnic of the horsehoers in this section of the state. The lodges which are engineering the outing for 1902 are Madison, Edgerton, Beloit and Janesville, and all of the neighboring towns have been invited to board the train on that day and enjoy themselves.

All Shops Closed
In this city there are thirteen blacksmith shops, twelve of which belong to the protective association, and it is believed that the thirteenth will join the party a week from today, and close his doors. The local lodge was organized late in 1899 and since that year the day of the national picnic has been faithfully observed.

The plans for this year's picnic have been elaborately made. Races among the horsehoers, games and sports of various natures have been arranged. Among the events catalogued for the day are a lean man's race, fat man's race, old maid's race, and a horse shoe pitching contest. A baseball game will be played between a team from the local shoers and a picked team from Edgerton and Madison.

Novel Prizes
For all of these events there are prizes offered. The victorious team in the base ball game will receive ninety pounds of horse shoe nails, while the losers will receive forty-five pounds of the same article. Split leather aprons, farrier knives, horse rasps and plinchers are also on the reward list. Most of the articles were given by Madison firms.

Major Wathen Is Dead.
El Paso, Ill., Aug. 9.—Major James K. Wathen, the oldest and wealthiest resident of Woodford county, Illinois, died at his home here. His estate was valued at nearly $500,000. He laid out the town of El Paso in 1854 and owned vast tracts of land in central Illinois. He had never married, and nieces and nephews in Kentucky will inherit the bulk of his fortune.

Marvelous Elixir of Life Discovered by Famous Doctor-Scientist That Cures Every known Ailment.

Wonderful Cures Are Effected That

The Secret of Long Life of Olden Times Revived.

The Remedy Is Free To All Who Send Name and Address.

After years of patient study, and delving into the dusty records of the past, as well as following modern experiments in the realms of medical science, Dr. James W. Kidd, 332 BALTIMORE BUILDING, Fort Wayne, Ind., has made a startling announcement that he has secured discovered the elixir of life. That he is able with the aid of a mysterious compound, known only to himself, produced as a result of the years he has spent in searching for this precious life-giving tonic to cure any and every disease that is known to the human body. There is no doubt of the doctor's earnestness in making his claim and the remarkable cures that he is daily effecting seem to bear him out strongly. His theory which he advances is one of reason and based on sound experience in a medical practice of many years. It costs nothing to try his remarkable "Elixir of Life," as he calls it, for he sends it free, to anyone who is a sufferer, in sufficient quantities to convince of its ability to cure, so there is absolutely no risk to run. Some of the diseases cured are very remarkable, and but for reliable witnesses would hardly be credited. The same have thrown away crutches and walked about after two or three trials of the remedy. The sick, given up by home doctors, have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. It cures emphysema, stomachic, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin diseases, and all other troubles disappear as by magic. Headaches, backaches, nervousness, fevers, consumption, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrhs, bronchitis, and all affections of the lungs, or any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous.

Partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and all other ills quickly and permanently removed. It purifies the entire system, blood and tissues, restores normal nerve power, circulation and a state of perfect health is produced at once. To the doctor all systems are alike and equally affected by disease. "Elixir of Life." Send for the remedy today. It is free to every sufferer. State what you want to be cured of and the sure remedy for it will be sent you free by return mail.

HAYMAKING time is when the sun shines. The selling time for anything is when people want it. Having a Dry Goods want is one thing, knowing where to satisfactorily fill that want is another. BUSINESS IS GOOD DESPITE STRIKES

GRAIN PRICES HOLD STRONG

Returns to Farmers Will Be Far Above the Average, Notwithstanding the Bumper Crops—Low Stocks the Contributing Factor.

New York, Aug. 9.—"Bright prospects in agricultural sections far outweigh the adverse influence of labor disputes which are still retarding trade and manufacture. Confidence in the future is unshaken. Dealers everywhere preparing for a heavy fall trade, while contracts for distant deliveries run further into next year than is usual at this date. Activity has been noteworthy in lumber regions, and fish packing made new records. Railway earnings are fully sustained, the latest returns showing an average advance of 3.9 per cent over the corresponding time last year, and 21.3 per cent over 1900." R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade makes the foregoing summary of the trade outlook. Continuing the Review says: "Aside from the fuel scarcity and some congestion of traffic, the iron and steel situation continues propitious. Coke ovens in the Connellsville region maintain a weekly output of about 250,000 tons and find ready buyers at full prices. Much more could be used to advantage.

Pig Iron Contracts.
"New contracts for pig iron were placed covering deliveries in the second quarter of 1903, and structural material is desired for bridges and buildings that will not be received until even more remote dates. Machinery and hardware trade is fully sustained, but there is idleness at tin plate mills and glass factories.

"Footwear factories are well engaged on fall orders and spring samples and the tone of the market is firmer, although actual advances have been few. Hides continue their upward movement, many grades gaining another good fraction.

"Dry goods buyers are coming into the market to a considerable extent, yet without placing orders of any size. Cotton goods exporters are practically out of the market, prices being below the point where profit is possible. A few lines of cottons are fractionally lower, and further declines are possible. Raw wool is fully sustained at recent advances, the average of 100 grades showing a gain of nearly a cent as compared with the level on May 1.

Bright for Farmers.
"Splendid growing and harvesting conditions have prevailed in most sections of the country, especially where the larger and more important crops are raised. It is now almost certain that the agricultural returns will be far above the average as to quantity, while the low stocks at the opening of the season are calculated to sustain prices, and there is little prospect of a return to the low quotations of preceding years of bumper production.

"Foreign commerce at this port is still less favorable than in the same week last year, exports declining $3,775,690, while imports increased slightly. Failures for the week number 196 in the United States, against 173 last year, and fourteen in Canada, against thirty-one a year ago."

Grain and Flour.
New York, Aug. 9.—Bradstreet's reports as follows: "Wheat, including flour, exports for the week ended Aug. 7 aggregate 4,244,363 bushels, against 4,388,534 last week and 8,831,199 in this week last year. Wheat exports since July 1 aggregate 22,398,203 bushels, against 35,032,237 last season. Corn exports aggregate 70,611 bushels, against 28,405 last week and 900,714 last year. For the fiscal year corn exports are 558,421 bushels, against 8,712,361 last season."

Exposure

To cold and stormy weather opens the way to an attack of bronchitis. The man on the wagon, be he farmer, milkman or truckman, needs to pay special heed to the first symptoms of weakness or disease of the organs of respiration.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure bronchitis, deep-seated coughs, bleeding of the lungs, and other conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate fatally in consumption. There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics.

"For seven years I had been troubled with what the doctors called bronchitis," writes Dr. Arthur Maule (general merchant), of Niles town, Middlesex Co., Ontario. "A year ago, after I had been taken sick with severe attack, I began taking your Golden Medical Discovery. I rapidly recovered from the attack and felt no more of it that fall. This season I began taking the 'Discovery' in August, and have so far been perfectly well. I can go out in all kinds of weather and not feel the bronchial trouble at all. Let me say to all who are suffering from such complaints to give Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a fair trial, and I am convinced that good results will be obtained."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper-bound, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only, or 31 stamps for the book in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

OPERATORS OFFER MEN OLD SCALE

DENOUNCED BY MOTHER JONES

Mineworkers' Angel Utters Bitter Words Against the Injunction Jurists—President Mitchell Is Well Pleased with the Strike Outlook.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 9.—Operators throughout the anthracite region declare the statement of the strike leaders that the wages of strikers will be reduced if they do not win the strike is false. They say the notice posted in their mines on March 12 is still effective, and when the men return to work the wages will be continued until April 1, 1893, and thereafter, subject to sixty days' notice. Also that local differences, as heretofore, be adjusted with their employees at the respective collieries.

Appeal Is Last Resort.
President Mitchell explained that the appeal for the pardon of the strikers leaders now in jail in West Virginia will be taken to President Roosevelt only as a last resort. "There are," he said, "some steps to be taken before that is done, and if these fail then the matter will be laid before the president."

"Mother" Mary Jones arrived here and, after a conference with President Mitchell, went to Scranton, whence she will return to West Virginia. She denounced the judges, whom she said are on the side of the operators.

Return to Work.
Sheriff Jacobs sent a posse to the Woodward mine at Edwardsville, where trouble was feared, but the strikers dispersed quickly and offered no resistance. At Plymouth several men returned to work at the Nottingham and more at the Pettibone, and at each mine they are engaged in cutting coal and stocking it inside ready for hoisting when the breaker is run.

The scenery of A. B. Shoemaker, near Hazelton, was raided by strikers and the machinery demolished, although he had permission to run it and employed only union men.

Supt. Toby of the Lackawanna says the company will abandon the Hallsted colliery at Duryea, which is now full of water. The mine employs 350 hands.

Mitchell Is Satisfied.
President Mitchell said he was satisfied with the situation in the hard coal region. Reports from the district officers of the United Mine Workers show that the misunderstanding which prevailed over the distribution of the relief fund has now disappeared, and the strikers are more confident than ever that they are going to win. Mr. Mitchell was also of the opinion that the anthracite mine workers must be paid in proportion to the amount paid to men in other branches of industry, and unless this is done many of the miners who have already left the hard coal region to go to the bituminous fields will never return.

HOUSE OF COMMONS ADJOURNS

Nothing Known of Atlantic Service Under the British Flag.

London, Aug. 9.—In the house of lords Friday Lord Morris and Killanin, a conservative, asked the government what steps it was taking for the establishment of an Atlantic service under the British flag. The earl of Onslow, parliamentary secretary of the colonial office, said certain proposals that had been submitted were being considered by that government, but the Canadian government had not informed his majesty's government or asked its assistance. The house then adjourned until Oct. 16.

THE LANPHEAR INSTITUTE.

Mrs. Lanphear's Books

Mrs. Lanphear's fame as an author is equally pronounced as being the founder and manager of the Institute of Healing which bears her name and which, by the way, is the only institution of the kind in the world owned and managed by a woman. Her publications are the ripened fruit of conscientious investigation and experience. Each of her books treats fully upon all important phases of the art of Magnetic Healing.

"The Veil Lifted."

Is a grand book on a great subject. This book is a veritable encyclopedia of the theory and practice of Magnetic Healing. It treats fully and clearly of the hidden power that banishes humanity's ills.

"The Art of Magnetic Healing"

This is one of the most valuable books ever given to the world from the pen of a woman. Not a page in the whole book is devoted to the fads or fancies of theoretical speculation, but as a whole, the book deals with the practical and the real in Magnetic Healing.

"Mail Course in Magnetic Healing."

Is the latest and best correspondence course ever given to the world on this subject. To read it is to know how to treat the sick and heal the afflicted.

MAD DOG CAUSES MUCH EXCITEMENT

BITES OTHER DOGS IN THE FIRST WARD.

THE ANIMAL FINALLY SHOT

While He Was Around He Was the Monarch Undisputed.

Lying in a disordered heap in the grass by the side of the road there lay at noon today all that was left of a red bird dog, which for several hours this morning threw into the wildest commotion the residents of the First ward in the vicinity of Chatham street and Mineral Point avenue. Women flew into their houses and barricaded the doors, children ran crying for shelter, while the few men who were at their home made random suggestions as to the best means of disposing of a forlorn dog that ran wildly up and down the street, snapping at everyone, and engaging in a battle with every dog that passed. Finally Mrs. Gene Olin, after several failures to get one of the police by telephone to come and shoot the animal, sent word to her husband. After being pursued through a corn field and around street corners for some time a revolver shot laid the dog low, and the neighbors once more came out on their porches to talk energetically of the disgrace of allowing a mad dog to run loose.

Owner of Dog Unknown.
The canine that caused all of this commotion was a small red bird dog that was strange to the neighborhood. One woman said that she had seen it several times in the past few days but in general all acquaintance with the animal was disclaimed. The dog wore a leather collar which had no tag or name plate. It was first seen early this morning foaming at the mouth and snapping at women and children, and up to the time that it was shot at about 10:30 it had bitten at least two dogs and threatened to bite others.

Bit Several Dogs.
Several dogs were engaged in battle by the supposedly mad dog, but so far as is known only two were actually bitten. One of these belonged to Mr. Kolo on Washington street, and the other to Mrs. Lawrence on Pearl. The latter, a small black puppy, was immediately ordered shot by its owner, and Gene Owen was requested to do the work. His shot was only partially successful, and did not kill the animal immediately, only wounding it in the stomach. It then escaped and could not be found.

May Have Been Poisoned.
It is believed by some of those who saw the dog that it was not affected with rabies, but had been poisoned, and they say that it is time that lynch law or some vigilance work were called into force to put an end to the work to that kind of business in that neighborhood. Last Monday William Brown lost a pug dog that had long been a pet of the family, by poisoning. Judge Dunwiddie, Mr. Bump, Mr. Harlow, and several others have suffered in the same way.

MADE A MISTAKE IN THE FAMILY

Man Named Hodson Arrested in Indiana Has Never Lived Here.

It was reported here last evening that one of the Hodson boys, son of the late Charles Hodson, who formerly lived here and was well-known, had been arrested in Indiana for forging his mother's name in Indiana to several papers, and giving a forged mortgage on her homestead—Reorder.

The above was probably prompted by the following which appeared in the Record-Herald yesterday, but refers to another family. Mrs. Hodson, who formerly resided here was named Mary Hodson, and her sons are Charles and George. The report was: St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 8.—Benjamin Hodson, son of the late Charles G. Hodson, of South Bend, Ind., was arrested in this city late this afternoon on charges of forgery and fraud. Hodson is wanted on complaint of his mother, Mrs. Rebecca H. Hodson. She discovered, she claims, that her sons, Benjamin and William, had plotted to ruin her, having forged her name to notes and securities amounting to $7,500. Benjamin Hodson had purchased a ticket and was just in the act of boarding a steamer for Chicago when Deputy Sheriff Martin Dwan rushed through the crowd and arrested him on the gangway, just as the boat was clearing the docks. Chief of Police Kline of South Bend will arrive in St. Joseph tomorrow and return with Hodson. William J. Hodson is now a prisoner in the county jail at South Bend on the same charge.

NEW CAR HAS COME AT LAST

Car No. 113, the property of the Janesville street railway company, arrived this morning from Worcester, Mass. The car is the same as the other new ones and will be put in service as soon as possible. After the track laying on Milton avenue is completed the track crew will be sent all over the track and the line will be put in first-class shape for the winter. Mr. Walter Blabon, who has been looking after the road for some time, wishes to have it in good order before he returns to Philadelphia.

BAD BOYS ARE IN THE COURT

SIXTEEN YEAR OLD YOUNGSTERS GET INTO TROUBLE.

ONE PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Incorrigibility is the Charge—Among Them Was a Paroled Waukesha Boy.

Chief Hogan had a couple of bad boys before Judge Fifeid this morning. They were Thomas Griffin, 16 years of age and son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Griffin, and Hugh Waggoner about the same age, son of Joseph Waggoner.

Distriet Attorney Jackson entered a charge of incorrigibility against Griffin. Waggoner, who is out of Waukesha on parole, will be sent back without any complaint being made, he having broken his parole.

Pleads Not Guilty

Griffin entered a plea of not guilty to the complaint and asked for trial. Chief Hogan testified to numerous lawless acts on the part of the boy, among others that he was drunk and making a disturbance on the Fourth Avenue bridge last night. Griffin said they were given the whiskey by Owen Griffiths up near Gehrke's boat landing, and claimed it was the first time that he had over been intoxicated.

The chief said that this was not the first time as he had seen him intoxicated several times.

Adjourns Case

Judge Fifeid adjourned the case until Monday morning at ten o'clock in order to allow Griffin's parents to be in court. He fixed the bail bond at $100, and sent them to jail until that time.

NO COMPROMISE WITH STRIKERS

BLAKE BROTHERS TAKE STAND

Will Run No Risk of Further Trouble with Local Men—Get Help from Madison.

It now looks as though the only hope for the striking teamsters on the Milton avenue job to get back to work again would be for them to hunt some other employers than Blake Brothers.

The latter people feel sure that they will experience no difficulty what ever in securing all the teams and drivers that they need without making any concessions to the union men. They are sorry that the trouble occurred in the first place, but now that it has reached its present status there would be nothing gained by making an attempt to come to terms.

As for the union men they do not seem to be in any mood to make advances. This morning they were out in full force to see Gentry Bros. circus parade. No thought of labor difficulties, or of harsh employers seemed to be troubling their minds but they seemed to be giving themselves up wholly to the enjoyment of the animals that were passing before them in gala array.

Horses On The Way

Some horses have been started on the road from Madison and more are being hired about the city each day. One of the teams which was taken out from the work by a union driver is now back hauling with a non-union man on the seat.

Some of the strikers have already secured other occupation, and the others will probably follow their example as soon as they see that it is useless to expect the contractors to give in. In speaking of the situation Edward Blake said that he always preferred, when conducting an out-of-town contract, provided he could secure satisfactory labor, to hire his employees in the city where he was at work, and that he felt that it was poor policy in general to go out of the city for men and teams. When, however, as in the present case, the local men deliberately stopped work without consulting him, he did not feel that he was under any obligation to anyone as to the source where he secured his laborers.

STREETS WILL BE WELL ILLUMINATED

Night Scenes Carnival Week Will Be Gay Ones in the City.

The committee of merchants who have been canvassing the town in regard to illuminating Main and Milwaukee streets during the carnival week have finished their work.

While they have seen about all of the merchants some of them have been overlooked. The scheme is to run a wire up and down both sides of Main and Milwaukee streets along the sidewalk line about ten feet above the ground and to this will be attached incandescent lights which will light up the whole street. Any merchants who have not been seen by the lighting committee can secure lights from Mr. P. H. Korst, superintendent of the Janesville Electric Co. The lights will burn until eleven o'clock each night and will cost 40 cents a piece for the week.

WILL PLAY THE ROCKFORD CLUB

SINNISSIPPI TEAM WILL PLAY RETURN GAME SOON.

PRESENT DATE NEXT THURSDAY

Large Party, It is Expected, Will Accompany the Team to Rockford

It is expected that the Sinissippi Golf club will return the visit of the Rockford Country club on Friday, August 15. So far quite a delegation have signified their intention of going to Rockford and Secretary Baker figures that there will be forty or fifty who will go including the ladies. In all probability a team of from sixteen to eighteen players will be taken which will make a first-class team match and ought to give Rockford a show to win on their own course.

Short Lived Joy.
The Sinissippi club were much elated yesterday noon when it was found that Al Schaller had defeated Eastus and played the course in 82. As long as he did not draw Vose and Pettit being out of the way his club mates figured that he ought to beat Van Ingen and get into the finals. Had he put up a game anywhere near as good as he did in the morning he would have defeated Van Ingen with ease. His afternoon round was in 92 which was just ten shots poorer than the morning game. Van Ingen played in 89 three strokes better and just enough to win the match.

This was one time when Schaller had a first class chance to win the first cup and the other members of the home team are sorry that he did not.

The following testimonial from J. C. Wilmarth, of El Paso, Texas, has been received in thanks for a picture of the club house and grounds:

STILL FURTHER PROOF

Where Doctor's Fail to Cure Woman's Ills, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds.

Mrs. Pauline Judson, Secretary Schermerhorn Golf Club, Brooklyn, N. Y., Writes On This Subject.

A woman best understands a woman's ills. How true this is, and how well proven in Mrs. Judson's letter which follows.

How many thousands of letters Mrs. Pinkham is constantly receiving from women recounting their months, and sometimes years of treatment by physicians for some derangement of the female organs without obtaining a cure, or even relief from their suffering, and how eventually they have been cured by her advice or medicine, or both, is almost beyond belief.

Just think how Mrs. Judson was treated for months without success, and how quickly she was cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash.

Is there a sick woman on earth who will doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over women's diseases in the face of such proof? Surely not.

Any woman who is troubled with any form of female ills, painful menstruation, backache, dizziness, bearing down feelings, ovarian inflammation or any womb trouble should hasten to procure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for no other medicine is so universally recommended by prominent women of all classes.

MRS. PAULINE JUDSON.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Soon after my marriage two years ago I found myself in constant pain. The doctor said my womb was turned, and this caused the pain, with considerable inflammation. He prescribed for me for four months, when my husband became impatient because I grew worse instead of better, and in speaking to the druggist he advised him to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash. How I wish I had taken that at first; it would have saved me weeks of suffering. It took three long months to restore me, but it is a happy relief, and we are both most grateful to you. Your Compound has brought joy to our home and health to me."—Mrs. PAULINE JUDSON, 47 Hoyt St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

It would seem by this statement that women would save time and much sickness if they would get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. It might as well be understood first as last that no medicine in the world is equal to it, and no druggists' substitute will be satisfactory. Get it to-day; don't wait.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letter is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

EDWARD ALBERT KING OF ENGLISH

Following the coach were medley gentlemen in plumes and robes known as gold and silver sticks. They did look a little wooden, but for students of heraldry their names have another meaning. Then more cavalry, and then the procession was over.

It passed down the mall through St. James Park through the horse guards' parade into Whitehall, and as it approached the parliament buildings, turned to the right into the street called Broad Sanctuary, and thence to the north entrance of Westminster abbey.

At The Abbey
London, Aug. 9.—The carriages drove up and left their occupants at Westminster abbey in the same order in which they left Buckingham palace. From the outside the abbey itself was hardly recognizable. Great stands crowded with people obscured the west side, and at the north entrance a big vestibule or outbuilding had been erected. This was of lath and plaster, with odd little gables and turrets colored to look old like its parent structure. The royal party entered this vestibule and it was here that the procession formed as it was to enter the abbey and march up the middle aisle to the altar. Three hundred of the king's untitled friends including several American women, had seats in the vestibule to see this part of the show. The vestibule was handsomely hung with tapestries loaned by J. Pierpont Morgan.

Fine View
From our place up in the triforium over the altar where the newspaper men are placed, we had a fine view of the procession as it came up the aisle. Cheers without had warned us of the arrival of royalty, and a stir in the vestibule told that the second procession of the day was making ready. Finally about 11 o'clock it appeared.

First came a body of white robed clergy, including the royal chaplains and the aged and patriarchal dean of Westminster, walking by himself after the others. So far it might have been an ordinary church procession and those already in the abbey strained forward to see who entered next.

Rainbow Colors
The white robes were succeeded by all the colors of the rainbow as the heralds, surrounded by pursuivants and knights, swept into the abbey. The heralds carried long brazen trumpets from which were suspended fringed banners replete with armorial bearings in rich embroidery. Their sleeves were full and slashed, showing bright silk beneath. They ranged themselves in line, lifted their trumpets into the air and blew a blast that shook the old abbey windows. Sousa's trombone chorus was nothing to it. Peal after peal they blew, advancing into the church. All in the abbey who had been seated, at once stood up.

Banner Guards
After the heralds and the knights came the standard of Ireland, a rich banner showing the harp, carried by the Hon. O'Connor Don, whose ancestors have been banner carriers for several hundred years. By him walked Henry Scrymgeour Wedderburn, bearing the lion of Scotland. Behind them, with the leopard banner of England, walked F. S. Dymoke, whose ancestors were king's champions. Formerly, after the king had been crowned, they appeared before him in full armor and, casting a glove on the ground, invited all who disputed the king's accession to come on and fight. No body ever accepted the invitation. Dymoke was anxious to hurl defiance in the traditional manner, but Edward wouldn't have it, and compromised with him by letting him carry a flag. After Dymoke walked the Duke of Wellington, carrying the four-part banner of the United Kingdom. The duke had a boy page, in his stockings and tunic, walking behind to carry his coronet. The duke as all other peers, wore a long crimson robe with an ermine fur cape. All wore satin knee breeches and silk stockings, and those who were entitled to such decoration wore a conspicuous garter on the left leg, below the knee.

Household

Next came the vice chamberlain of the household, and behind him the keeper of the crown jewels, carrying two ruby rings and a little sword on a cushion. Then four knights of the Garter, who, later, were to hold a canopy over the king. Each had a page to carry his coronet. After them were the lord chamberlain, the lord steward, the president of the council and the lord privy seal. The last was Mr. Balfour, whose ceremonial duties, usually of almost farcical inconsequence, today gave him a better place than he would have received as prime minister and virtual ruler of the empire.

Following the premier walked big, red-faced Lord Ashbourne, looking imposing, as lord chancellor of Ireland. He was attended by a purse bearer and a page, the former being a survival of the good old days when people had more money than they could carry. With him was the archbishop of York in episcopal robes. Next to him was Earl Halsbury, short fat, and good tempered looking, who is lord high chancellor. He also had a purse bearer. After him was the archbishop of Canterbury attended by two gentlemen.

The Nobility
Next came a group of nobles, among whom were the earl of Gosford, the duke of Roxburghe and Lord Harris, carrying regalia belonging to the queen. One had an ivory rod with a dove on top of it, another a scepter with a cross, and the third the queen's crown. They were attended by sergeants-at-arms, presumably to protect the valuables.

Then after a brief interval came the queen, walking slowly, her great train stretching for yards down the aisle. On either side of her walked a bishop and her train was borne by the duchess of Buccleuch, mistress of the robes, and six young noblemen. Following the queen were four titled ladies in waiting, four maids of honor and four women of the bed chamber.

King's Regalia
Noblemen carrying the king's regalia followed. Earl Carrington held St. Edward's staff, the young duke of Argyll the scepter and cross and earl of Loudoun and Lord Gray de Ruthyne each carried a golden spur. Bearing solemnly aloft these little spiked trinkets they looked somewhat ridiculous.

Then three in a row walked Lord Roberts, Lord Wolseley and the duke of Grafton. The two generals carried big pointed swords, which looked ready for business, while the duke carried a blunt little sword without any point. The first two were war swords, while the third was the curiana, or sword of mercy.

Sword Bearers
Behind the sword bearers walked four kings of arms. They represent the king's personal defenders and are entitled to wear crowns and carry scepters in imitation of their royal master. Today they carried their crowns in their hands until the king put his on then they put theirs on also. A fifth king at arms in scarlet satin also wore the Order of the Garter. Looking a little out of place in this gorgeous company walked the lord mayor of London, carrying a mace.

In a group by themselves came the high constable of Ireland, the duke of Abercorn, the high constable of Scotland, the earl of Eroll and the earls of Shrewsbury and Crawford as high stewards of Ireland and Scotland.

Advance Guard
As a sort of advance guard immediately before the king came the duke of Norfolk, earl-marshal, who stage-managed the whole show, with two pages and carrying a baton; the marquis of Londonderry carrying a big state sword, the duke of Somerset with the king's orb. Three bishops of Ely, London and Winchester, carrying the patina, bible and chalice. Then an interval, and the king, the central figure of the pageant, entered. He wore a crimson robe with an enormous train, the collar of the Order of the Garter, and on his head was a crimson cap in place of a crown.

King Supported
A bishop supported the king on either side and six noblemen bore his train. There followed a group of other nobles, among them the duke of Beccleuch, general of the archer guard of Scotland, who is supposed to defend the king with a bow and arrow.

Bringing up the rear were officers of the household, among them Lord Knollys, the king's private secretary; officers of the household troops in full uniform. Last of all 20 yeomen of the guard.

THE HISTORIC ABBEY

Pageant Arrives And The Interior Parade Is Brilliant

London, Aug. 9.—The abbey itself, the theater of the pageant, remained exactly as it was, June 26, when the king would have been crowned but for the dramatic postponement. It was much changed from the abbey remembered by tourists, but, after all its essential features remained. While most of the tombs and monuments, usually so conspicuous a feature, were hidden by tiers of seats, the essential architectural features of the interior remained the same. The soft lights from the rose windows added to the richness of the heavy draperies. On either side of the nave in the entrance were sloping tiers of seats for specially invited guests. In the choir stalls, ordinarily occupied by white-robed singers, sat the ambassadors from foreign countries. The special missions which would have been a feature of the earlier ceremony were absent. For the whole length of the nave and choir galleries had been erected between the arches. Filled with richly dressed people, they created a decorative effect of great beauty. The stalls and galleries were hung with velvet cloth in dull, soft colors of blue and gold.

The Thrones
In the very center of the church was a dais for the king and queen. Upon it a very large throne chair for the king, and a smaller one for the queen. To the right and left on either side of the dais, were the peers and peeresses. The peers occupied the north transept in a wide ascending tier of seats. They were all in crimson robes, with ermine capes, and bareheaded. In the opposite transept were the peeresses in a similar tier of seats. They were all dressed in low-cut gowns of richest fabrics, and displayed jewels of sparkling beauty and fabulous value. Both peers and peeresses held their coronets in their hands. A number of the less important people were absent, giving those who remained ample room, certainly more than the 16 inches of space originally allotted.

In galleries on either side, over the heads of the peers and peeresses, were members of the house of commons and their wives. Here was most of the real ability of the country, but not being decorative its possessors were put so far back as to be nearly invisible. The common galleries were rather thinly filled. No Irish members except Ulster Unionists appeared and many English members were away in the country.

The Altar
Behind the dais was the altar place, the floor of which, like that of the dais was covered with blue Worcester carpet. The altar itself was rich ecclesiastical hangings, and behind the altar were crimson velvet curtains beyond whose folds was the chapel of King Henry VII.

Stone of Scone
Placed in front of the altar was a heavy old oak chair, beneath of which was the famous stone of scone. This stone, according to an old legend, was the one on which Jacob laid his head when he dreamt the vision of the golden stairs. At any rate, the Scottish kings and later the English kings have been crowned upon it for a thousand years, and today England's seventh Edward was to take his seat over it at the formal beginning of his reign. At its left was a smaller chair for the crowning of the queen.

Historic Sights
Though today not visible to the eye the historical associations of the abbey were ever present to the imagination and gave to some of the quaint features of the ceremony a reason and reality they could not have otherwise possessed. Just behind the altar was the tomb of Edward the Confessor, at the left was an ancient painting of Richard II; in the passageways either side lay the bodies of Queen Elizabeth, Mary Queen of Scots and others who had reigned during bygone centuries.

Ceremony Begins
The last words of the anthem were being sung when the king and queen, after kneeling for a moment in silent prayer, took seats which had been provided for them below their thrones. The archbishop of Canterbury, in his episcopal robes, preceded by the garter king at arms and accompanied by the lord great chamberlain, the lord chancellor, the lord high constable and the earl marshal, stepped to the king's side and in a clear voice said:

King Presented
"Sir, I here present unto you King Edward, the undoubted king of this realm; wherefore all you who are come this day to do your homage, are you willing to do the same?"

Immediately everybody in the abbey shouted, "God save king Edward, God save the King," repeating this many times until the voices merged into a general shout of acclamation. As it died down the heralds lifted their trumpets and blew a salute. It was more decorous than a hominization by acclamation in an American national convention, but in much the same spirit.

After the shouting the archbishop recited the Lord's prayer and read the first chapter of the communion service.

The Oath And Anointing
To save the king fatigue, parts of the service which were on the program for June 26, were omitted. Next came the taking of the oath. The archbishop, standing before the king, said:

"Sir, is your majesty willing to take the oath?"

The king answered: "I am willing."

The archbishop then asked if he solemnly swore and promised to govern the people of Great Britain and Ireland and dominions belonging thereto according to the statutes of parliament and its laws and customs; to cause law and justice in mercy to be executed; to do the utmost to maintain the laws of God, the profession of the gospel and the Protestant reformed religion established by law, and to preserve the settlement of the Church of England, its doctrine, worship and discipline, and reserve to the clergy their rights and privileges.

To all of which the king answered: "All this I promise to do."

Then to bind the oath, the king stood from his chair, and, being escorted to the altar and placing his hand upon a great copy of the bible held out to him by the archbishop, he said, solemnly:

"The things which I have here before promised, I will perform and keep, so help me God."

The king then kissed the bible and signed the oath as the choir sang "Veni Creator Spiritus." Then the archbishop prayed God to bless and sanctify "His chosen servant, King Edward."

Again the organ pealed and the choir burst into the anthem "Zadoc the Priest and Nathan the Prophet Anointed Solomon King."

King Dressed

During the singing of the anthem the king was dressed of his crimson robe and his red cap, and took his seat in old King Edward's coronation chair. Four knights of the garter then came forward and held over his head a rich canopy of cloth of gold. When this was in place, the dean of Westminster went to the altar and took from it a dish of oil, the dish shaped like a loving cup, with two handles and called an ampulla. With it he took a spoon which he presented to the archbishop of Canterbury and the archbishop, dipping the spoon in the oil, poured some of it on the king's head, saying:

The Anointing
"Do thy head anointed with holy oil as kings, priests and prophets were anointed."

Again filling the spoon the archbishop, with some difficulty, found a hole which had been cut in the king's shirt for the purpose and poured it through upon his breast, saying:

"Be thy breast anointed with holy oil."

After this oil was put in the palms of the king's hands and the anointing was complete. Edward was now king by divine right and the grace of God.

Then the canopy was removed and the king was robed in pure cloth of gold, heavily embroidered. It was a beautiful thing but very heavy, as much as a strong man could support, and it was only allowed to remain on the king's shoulders a few moments.

Minor ceremonies, presenting the king with spurs, a sword, a ring, scepter and orb, were then performed. The king was enjoined to be "so merciful that you be not too lenient, so execute justice that you forget not mercy, punish the wicked, protect and cherish the just and lead your people in the way wherein they should go."

The Crowning

The ceremony had been long, but never tedious, and we now approached its culmination. The archbishop, standing before the altar, took the crown in his hands and prayed God to crown the king with all princely virtues. The king, who had knelt during this prayer, seated himself again in the chair and the archbishop, attended by other bishops and the dean, advanced to where the king sat and the archbishop very slowly placed the crown on the king's head. There was absolute silence and then the moment the crown touched the king's brow, everyone shouted loudly and went together, "God save the king." The heralds blew their trumpets and outside guns fired a salute. At the same moment the peers and the kings at arms put on their own coronets.

The tumult of shouts lasted some moments. When it had subsided the archbishop prayed and the choir sang the following strain: "Be strong and play the man; keep the commandments of the Lord they God and wait in His ways."

Enthroning and Homage

By this time the king was showing signs of fatigue and was holding his lips tightly together. In spite of omissions the service demanded a good deal of moving about. Now the archbishop and bishops and various peers in their robes escorted him to the throne on the dais and lifted him into it. They then arrayed themselves on either side and the archbishop read an exhortation.

Next came the picturesque ceremony of doing homage. Formerly every bishop and noble did individual homage, but that was before George III doubled the peerage and Queen Victoria doubled it again, and, today, for brevity, one did it for his whole order.

First the archbishop knelt before the king, and as the bishops knelt in their places the archbishop promised to be faithful and true to his sovereign lord and acknowledge service for the lands held of the king in right to the church. Then the archbishop kissed the king on the right cheek.

After the archbishop, the prince of Wales advanced in the same manner and knelt before the king. As he did so the other princes of royal blood knelt and repeated after the prince of Wales this quaint Saxon oath:

"I do become your liege man of life and limb and of earthly worship and faith and truth I will bear unto you, to live and to die against all manner of folks. So help me God."

Then the prince and the other princes after advanced and kissed the king's cheek.

Then the peers by dukes, marquises, earls, viscounts and barons, made the same oath and the head of each order advancing touched the king's crown with his hand in token to support the royal power, and kissed the king's cheek. While homage was being presented the choir sang an anthem, after which the trumpets sounded, drums beat and everybody shouted in chorus:

"God save King Edward,
Long live King Edward,
May the king live forever."

They shouted it heartily and the sick king on his throne smiled in recognition of their earnestness.

Crowning The Queen

The archbishop of York then crowned the queen in much the same manner as the king had been crowned but with a less elaborate ritual. As the crown was placed on her head all the peeresses put on their coronets. Then came an interesting incident. In passing to her throne, which she took without further ceremony, the queen bowed low before the queen in token of homage.

After prayers and thanksgivings, the ceremony ended. The king and queen were escorted through a door on the south side of the altar into King Henry's chapel, where they were divested of their coronation robes and arrayed in robes of purple velvet. The great nobles then escorted them to their carriages and the procession returned to Buckingham palace. It was made up in the same order in which it came. Once in their carriage, the king and queen put on their crowns and held scepters in their right hands. The king carried an orb in his left hand, while in her left hand the queen held an ivory rod.

On the way back, the procession took the longer route through Whitehall, Piccadilly and Constitution Hill. It was the only occasion upon which the general public could see the king and queen wearing their crowns, and they watched them with enormous interest and great enthusiasm.

CLEVER ANIMALS GIVE GREAT SHOW

PARADE PLEASED THE PEOPLE

Remarkable Intelligence Exhibited by Gentry Brothers' Trained Dogs, Ponies and Elephants.

Monkeys peerin ghtrough the bars of gaily painted wagons, fat little ponies wearing silver mounted harnesses and drawing the show wagons, heriboned trick dogs wearing the air of proprietorship of the whole show, elephants hanging onto each other's tails, humpy camels, with their shifty walk and two good hands were features of the parade which pleased a big crowd of people this morning. Gentry Brothers have an unusually large troupe of trained animals this year and even the elephants are small sized thus harmonizing with the dogs, ponies and monkeys.

Other animals, including a zebra and a sacred cow, are a part of the show but interest centers in the performing animals. Though the actors are all diminutive, there is nothing small about the show and the pleasing parade of this morning was but a fore-runner of the really excellent performance which was given on the Fair Grounds this afternoon. Cleven acts made up the program, over which the audience went wild with delight and which will be repeated this evening.

SUNKEN BOAT CLEW TO TRAIN ROBBERS

Fisherman Finds the Craft Opposite the Place Where Bandits Abandoned Engine.

Savanna, Ill., Aug. 9.—It developed in the Burlington train robbery case that a fisherman found a sunken boat on the Iowa side of the river opposite the point where the engine was abandoned. The boat contained two pair of oars.

A tramp railroad man named "Jack" McGarry has identified the dead robber as a man with whom he drank at Cedar Rapids about last June. The dead man's measurements were taken to-day by the Bertillon method and the body was buried.

Suspects Are Held.
St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 9.—George McHenry, alias McKinnon; H. D. Coleman, Henry Lee, F. D. Assistant Superintendent Ringdahl of a Chicago detective agency requested that they be held pending a further investigation.

The prisoners deny all knowledge of the robbery. They say they were in Chicago at the time and claim to be able to prove their statement.

The correct name of McKinnon was found to be McHenry by a letter in his pocket, but it threw no light on the man's past.

FIND RICH GOLD MINE OFF ECUADOR COAST

Large Quantity of Fair Grade Ore Discovered by Crew From San Francisco.

San Francisco, Aug. 9.—The little schooner W. S. Phelps returned from a six months' voyage to the coast of South America, bringing news of the discovery of a gold mine which will rival the famous Treadwell mine of Alaska, if the reports of the voyagers are borne out. The mine is on an island off the coast of South America, but the discoverers will not tell its exact location, as they have not yet secured a concession to work the gold deposit. It is thought that the island is off the Ecuador coast, as the Phelps first touched there on her return trip.

The ore in the mine, of which the Phelps brought nearly a ton in samples, is of fair grade and there is said to be a large quantity of it. Like the Treadwell it is so easily reached from the coast that it will be simply a proposition of quarrying it out. As soon as they secure a concession the promoters of the Phelps expedition will make known the location of the mine.

The Phelps was fitted out by F. S. Spaulding of this city, and the only persons on board were those interested in the expedition. The Phelps also brought from Gallapagos Island a number of giant tortoises, some of them weighing 500 pounds.

THOMBS DIES ON THE SCAFFOLD.

Protests His Innocence of the Crime to the Last.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Louis J. Thombs was executed in the Cook county jail for the murder of Carrie Larsen, committed on the steamer Peerless on Dec. 30, 1901, while the vessel was in winter quarters at the Burlington slip in the river. Thombs was caretaker of the vessel and young Kelsing, who was the only witness against him, was a roustabout, who was allowed to sleep on the ship. Thombs engaged the Larsen girl to act as cook on the steamer, and choked her to death the first night she appeared for service. Thombs protested his innocence to the last. When on the scaffold he said: "I am about to pay the penalty for a most atrocious crime. I am innocent. My only hope is that the lapse of time will purge my wife and child of the disgrace that is now being brought upon them."

ANDREWS TRIAL IS NEAR END

Both Sides Have Rested and Arguments Are in Order.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9.—The defense in the Frank C. Andrews trial created a surprise by announcing that it had no more witnesses and rested. It had been expected the defense would put on one or two more witnesses. The prosecution then began to put in its rebuttal testimony, several witnesses being examined as to the appraisals made by Andrews' witnesses of real estate turned over to the wrecked bank by Andrews. All the prosecution's witnesses finished their testimony and both sides then rested.
